'What makes Jewish Anzacs unique is its interweaving of the many remarkable lives and personal accounts of Jewish Australians who have served in uniform.' — Major General Jeffrey Rosenfeld

JEWISH ANZACS

JEWES IN THE AUSTRALIAN MILITARY

MARK DAPIN

Award-winning author of The Nashos' War and Spirit House

A landmark history of Australian Jews in the military, from the First Fleet to the war in Afghanistan.

More than 7000 Jews have fought in Australia's military conflicts, and at least 340 have given their lives. While Sir John Monash is our best known Jewish soldier, in Jewish Anzacs acclaimed writer and historian Mark Dapin reveals the personal, often extraordinary stories of many other Jewish servicemen and women: from air aces to POWs, from nurses to generals, from generation to generation.

Weaving together official records, interviews, private letters, diaries and papers, Dapin explores the diverse lives of his subjects and reflects on their valour, patriotism, mateship, faith and sacrifice.

Includes 49 evocative images and Appendix with Memorial and Honour Rolls.
